

This intriguing film is a dramatization of investigator reporter Lee Strobel's bestselling book, The Case for Christ

, which has sold 14 million copies. It is the true story of how he set out to disprove the Christian Faith after his wife, Leslie, became a Christian. When Strobel asks a fellow skeptic for help, he recommends reading Bertrand Russel's book:

Why I am Not a Christian.

To Destroy Christianity

Lee Strobel is challenged by a fellow-journalist that if he wants to destroy the Christian religion, then he needs to demonstrate that the cardinal tenant of that Faith – The Resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ – did not happen. Then he was assured that the remainder of the Christian Faith would collapse “like a house of cards”.

To Watch trailer click HERE

Follow the Facts

As a prize-winning reporter who had won acclaim for taking on the Ford Motor Company over safety issues, Lee Strobel considered that he could demolish the Christian Faith by investigative reporting and consulting the experts.

Investigate the Sources

misc@franchise.com Evidences of the Resurrection